FINANCIAL STATEMENT AUDIT

Subject

University of Arizona issues financial statements annually. The University is responsible for preparing financial statements, maintaining strong internal controls, and demonstrating accountability for its use of public monies. As the auditors, our job is to determine whether the University has met its responsibilities.

Our Conclusion

The information in the University's financial statements is fairly stated in all material respects and the financial statements can be relied upon. This information is also incorporated in the State of Arizona's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report.

Year Ended June 30, 2006

The University's Condensed Financial Information

The University's financial information is presented in three financial statements: Statement of Net Assets; Statement of Revenues, Expenses, and Changes in Net Assets; and Statement of Cash Flows. The University's component units are not included in the condensed financial information that follows.

Statement of Net Assets

The Statement of Net Assets reports all of the University's assets and liabilities using the accrual basis of accounting, which is similar to the accounting that most private-sector institutions use. Net assets, which is the difference between assets and liabilities, include three major categories. The first category, invested in capital assets, net of related debt, shows the University's equity in property, plant, and equipment. The next category, restricted net assets, shows the amount of net resources available for certain university expenditures. These net assets must be used for purposes determined by donors and external entities that have placed purpose restrictions on their use. The third category, unrestricted net assets, shows the net resources available to the University to fund other general operations. The summary below presents a condensed Statement of Net Assets as of June 30, 2006.

Statement of Revenues, Expenses, and Changes in Net Assets

The Statement of Revenues, Expenses, and Changes in Net Assets presents the University's operating and nonoperating revenues and expenses, and the resulting change in net assets. Revenues and expenses are classified as operating if they relate to the University's primary activities, such as instruction, research, and public service. All other revenues and expenses, such as state appropriations and interest on indebtedness, are considered nonoperating. The change in net assets indicates whether the University's financial health has improved or deteriorated as a result of current-year operations. For the current year, the University's net assets showed an increase of $32 million. The summary to the right presents the University's revenues and expenses for the year ended June 30, 2006.

Revenues

Between fiscal years 2004 and 2006, the University's total revenues have increased by $145 million, or 13 percent. As shown in the chart below, the change primarily resulted from increases in state appropriations, tuition and fees, and other revenues. State appropriation revenues increased by $41 million, tuition and fees revenues increased by $20 million, and other revenues increased by $48 million during the period. These increases primarily resulted from larger state appropriations to offset the cost of student enrollment growth and higher salaries and benefits, increased charges for tuition and fees, gains from the sale of several land parcels, and increased capital grants, gifts, and conveyances.

Expenses

Between fiscal years 2004 and 2006, the University's total expenses have increased by $128 million, or 11 percent. As shown in the chart below, the change primarily resulted from increases in salaries and benefits, and supplies and services expenses. Salaries and benefits increased $91 million, and supplies and services increased $16 million during the period. These changes primarily resulted from rising employee benefit costs and operational increases largely related to increases in instruction and other services provided to students.
